

A Reservation Glitch and a Free Jacuzzi

At the Transnational Hotel, receptionist could not locate guest Tom Sanders's paid reservation for a single room and suspected a system glitch; with no single rooms left, she upgraded him at no extra charge to a business suite with a Jacuzzi, then explained the wireless internet access code and listed amenities such as the gym and indoor pool.

After confirming Tom arrived by taxi rather than car, the receptionist collected his ID and registration form, noting he was visiting from San Francisco on his first trip to New York for a business conference, with plans to sightsee; she checked him into Room 653, gave directions to the sixth-floor room, arranged for the bellboy to bring up his suitcase, and invited him to call the front desk if needed.

Outline

- Finding the Missing Reservation and Offering an Upgrade
 - Tom Sanders arrives with a three-night single-room reservation and a reservation number
 - Receptionist can't locate the booking, suspects a system glitch
 - No single rooms remain; an adjoining room near a family with children is available but noisy
 - Receptionist upgrades Tom to a business suite with a Jacuzzi at no extra charge
- Hotel Amenities and Services Information
 - Tom asks about wireless internet access
 - Receptionist provides access code, usage instructions, and a front desk contact for issues
 - Receptionist gives a list of hotel amenities, including the gym and indoor pool
- Check-In Requirements and Guest Background
 - Receptionist asks about parking or valet service; Tom explains he took a taxi from the airport, having no car
 - Receptionist requests ID and a completed registration form
 - Tom's driver's license shows he is from San Francisco

- Tom's Trip to New York and Plans

- Tom describes a long but smooth flight, having slept most of the way
- This is his first visit to New York
- He is in town for a business conference and hopes to do some sightseeing
- Receptionist offers to share sightseeing tips

- Room Assignment and Final Instructions

- Tom is checked in and given a key card for Room 653
- Receptionist gives directions: elevator on the right to the 6th floor, turn right, room at the end of the corridor on the left
- Tom leaves his suitcase for the bellboy to bring up
- Receptionist invites him to call the front desk with any needs and wishes him an enjoyable stay

Finding the Missing Reservation and Offering an Upgrade

Hotel Receptionist: Good morning. Welcome to the Transnational Hotel. What can I do for you? [00:09]

Tom Sanders: Good morning. My name is Tom Sanders. I have a reservation for a single room for three nights. [00:12]

Hotel Receptionist: Alright, mister Sanders. Let me pull up your reservation. I can't seem to find a record of your booking. Did you book the room directly through us, or do you use a hotel reservation service or a travel agent? [00:16]

Tom Sanders: Well, I booked it directly through you. I've already also paid a deposit on the first night. I have a reservation number if that helps. [00:30]

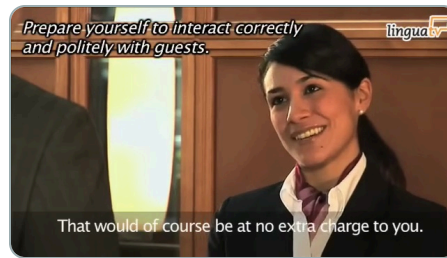

Hotel Receptionist: Yeah. Sure. Can I see that, please? Thank you. Oh, I see. Maybe there was a glitch with the booking system. Well, we don't have any more single rooms available with the exception of one adjoined room, but you would then be right next door to a family with children, which might get noisy. But that's not a problem. I can upgrade you to one of our business suites. They all come with Jacuzzis. [00:36]

Tom Sanders: Oh, that sounds nice. But how much more is that going to cost? [01:00]

Hotel Receptionist: That would, of course, be at no extra charge to you. [01:04]

Tom Sanders: Oh, well, thank you. [01:06]

Hotel Receptionist: My pleasure. [01:06]

Hotel Amenities and Services Information

Tom Sanders: What about the wireless Internet? [01:09]

Hotel Receptionist: Oh, it's really easy. This is your access code and instructions on how to use it. If you have any problems, feel free to call the front desk. And this is a list of all the hotel amenities like the gym and the indoor pool. [01:10]

Tom Sanders: Oh, thank you very much. [01:25]

Check-In Requirements and Guest Background

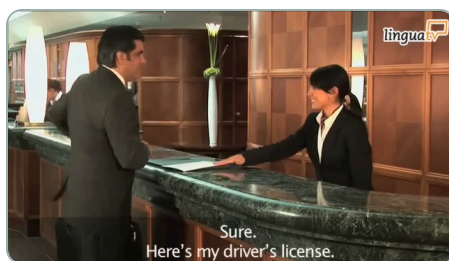

Hotel Receptionist: You're welcome. Has the valet already taken your car, or will you be needing a parking pass? [01:25]

Tom Sanders: Oh, I don't have a car. I took a taxi direct from the airport. [01:31]

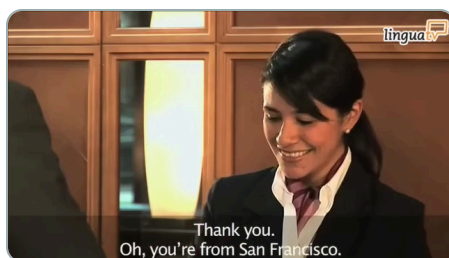

Hotel Receptionist: Oh, alright. Could I have some form of ID, please? And could you just fill out this registration form? [01:33]

Tom Sanders: Sure. Here's my driver's license. [01:37]

Hotel Receptionist: Thank you. Oh, you're from San Francisco? [01:41]

Tom Sanders: Yes. I am all the way from the West Coast. [01:43]

Tom's Trip to New York and Plans

Hotel Receptionist: I hope you had a good trip. [01:46]

Tom Sanders: Yes. I did. Thank you. The flight was long, but it was smooth, and I slept almost the whole way. [01:46]

Hotel Receptionist: Oh, and is this your first time in the Big Apple? [01:53]

Tom Sanders: Yes. It is. I have a business conference to attend, but I'm looking forward to getting some sightseeing done as well. [01:53]

Hotel Receptionist: Well, I'd be more than happy to give you some sightseeing tips if you need any. [02:02]

Tom Sanders: Thank you. [02:03]

Room Assignment and Final Instructions

Hotel Receptionist: Alright. I've got you all checked into your room. This is your room key. You're in Room 653. Just take the elevator on the right up to the 6th Floor. When you get off the elevator, turn right. Your room is at the end of the corridor on the left hand side. Just leave your suitcase here, and the bellboy will bring it up. [02:03]

Tom Sanders: Great. Well, thank you very much. [02:23]

Hotel Receptionist: If you need anything, please feel free to dial the front desk. Enjoy your stay. [02:27]

Tom Sanders: Thank you. [02:28]

Hotel Receptionist: You're welcome. [02:29]